Introduction

In accordance with section 125(1) of the Government Information (Public Access) Act 2009 (GIPA Act) Richmond Valley is required to report annually on its obligations under the GIPA Act. The GIPA Act creates rights to information that are designed to meet the community's expectations of more open and transparent government. It encourages the routine and proactive release of government information, including information held by providers of goods and services contracted by government agencies.

Under the GIPA Act there are four ways in which government information can be released.

1. Open Access Information

Open Access Information is published on Council's website and includes Council's policies, meeting agendas and minutes and many other categories of information.

2. Proactive Release

Section 7(3) of the GIPA Act requires Council to review its program for the release of government information to identify the kinds of information which can be made publicly available. This review must be undertaken at least once every 12 months.

As part of Council's review of its proactive release program, the following actions were undertaken throughout the reporting period:

Richmond Valley Council has effective communications and protocols, internally and externally, and is open to, and encourages feedback from the community and interested parties. Services are delivered professionally and effectively, responding quickly with a willingness to be flexible where necessary.

Richmond Valley Council ensures information on all key decisions, projects, events and issues is communicated through a mixture of online and traditional tools. The website is the primary source for providing information and engaging with internal and external stakeholders. Social media is used as a more timely and targeted communication with selected audiences.

Short videos have been introduced and are an effective way to communicate key messages, such as Council meeting wrap ups and key roadworks projects.

Media releases are the preferred communication directed at members of the news media (TV, radio, print and social) for the purpose of announcing something newsworthy. Richmond Valley Council continues to identify and explore emerging communications methods and channels in line with changing technology and community needs.

3. Informal Release of Information

Council encourages the public to request access to information either by email or in writing where appropriate in order to meet the intent of the GIPA Act. There is no charge for this request however appropriate photocopying charges may be applicable in accordance with Council policy. Informal requests can be made online by visiting:

4. Formal Release of Information (Formal Access Application)

Where information is not accessible via the above methods, members of the public may submit a formal access application.

Access Applications Received

Overall Richmond Valley Council received three (3) access applications from 1 July 2018 to 30 June 2019. Schedule 2 of this Annual Report provides the statistical information required to be reported under the GIPA Act.

Government Information (Public Access) Act 2009 – Annual Report

Clause 8A: Details of the review carried out by the agency under section 7 (3) of the Act during the reporting year and the details of any information made publicly available by the agency as a result of the review
